Crash fatal to woman injures bank officer

John L. McDonald Jr., 42, vice-president and cashier of the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank, suffered fracture and dislocation of the right hip in a five-auto fatal crash on the Poplar Street Bridge Friday.

Treated at 3:10 p.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Hospital, he was transferred the same day to the Jewish Hospital, St. Louis. He also suffered right knee abrasions and a chin laceration. McDonald resides at 2213 Dawn Place.

His auto was struck by a car driven by George P. Lay, 74, of Brooklyn.

Lay's passenger, Mrs. Lena M. Neal, 70, of East St. Louis, was killed, when thrown out of the vehicle by the impact. Lay was injured, taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Two other motorists, Frank Cochran, Cornersville, Ind., and June E. Frankenstein, Cincinnati, O., were treated at St. Mary's after the crash. The fifth driver left the scene.

Grand jury urges more intensive, coordinated drug abuse crackdown

The Madison County Grand Jury late Thursday afternoon took note of the prevailing drug problem and urged accelerated efforts to combat it.

Headed by James M. Cleland, the grand jury urged "all law enforcement agencies in the county to initiate a coordinated and intensive effort to seek out every drug violation committed, and in that regard to procure local, state and federal funds for this purpose."

The jury asked that State Attorney Nicholas G. Byron "strongly urge federal authorities to continue their drug investigation and apprehension activities in our area, and to offer his offices in connection with legal assistance therewith when requested."

Tactics used by some members of the federal drug law enforcement organization in raids at two Collinsville homes have drawn nationwide criticism.

But the subsequent curtailment of much of the enforcement effort in this region also has been assailed as unwise.

Referring to the subject, the grand jury commented, "Investigation concerning two particular drug raids conducted recently in Madison County is incomplete and it is hereby recommended that the next grand jury continue investigation of this matter."

In a special report May 24, the grand jury, which had convened Jan. 22, reiterated its finding of innocence regarding William Vernon of Collinsville, a Metro-East Journal writer; the no-trial bill was on an original charge of unlawful possession.

session of a controlled substance. The jury cited an "unlawful search of premises by Collinsville police."

It added, "Failure of the police to apply for and have in their possession a search warrant, prior to the search, causes any evidence found in the search to be of no value in attempting to successfully prosecute the case."

"For this reason, the grand jury must report a no-trial bill. Further, the grand jury strongly recommends that police departments throughout Madison County at all times use only lawful and proper procedures in the performance of their duties so that the rights of individuals may be protected while the interests of justice are being served."

As part of its regular report, the grand jury said, "It appears that a few local police agencies are not availing themselves of legal assistance from the state's attorney's office—with the result of limited

Holiday visit ends tragically for Granite City family on a lonely Missouri highway

A Granite City child was killed, her parents seriously hurt and three younger sisters injured, in a one-car accident at 12:30 a.m. Saturday on Highway 21 about 12 miles north of Doniphan, Mo.

Michelle Christine Lowe, 6 years old, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Ripley County Memorial Hospital in Doniphan. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gerald Lowe, 4401 Kirkpatrick Homes, were injured seriously as was Melissa Denise, 8 months, who is believed to have been sleeping on the front seat between the couple at the time of the accident. Sustaining lesser injuries were the couple's two other children, Laura Marie, 4, and Angela Diane, 2, who were treated at the Ripley County Hospital and released.

Melissa was transferred to St. Louis Children's Hospital. Her injuries include a fractured skull and leg and her condition is critical.

Lowe, 25, was transferred to the Veterans' Hospital at Poplar Bluff, Mo. Mrs. Sondra Lee Lowe, 26, remains a patient at the Ripley County Memorial Hospital.

The accident occurred just two miles from the country home of Lowe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Lowe of Granite City. The family was traveling to the country home to spend the Memorial Day holiday weekend.

Authorities in Poplar Bluff said that Lowe was driving and apparently traveling to the wrong side of Highway 21, striking a concrete bridge abutment. The family's 1967 auto was torn apart by the impact.

Funeral services were held Monday at a Doniphan funeral home for Michelle, who was born in Granite City. In addition to her parents, sisters and paternal grandparents, the youngsters is survived by her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Thomas of Granite City; great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert

Goode of LaCenter, Ky.; and several aunts and uncles. It was learned that Mr. Glen Lowe is to retire this week from the Scott Printing Co. St. Louis, and the elder Lowe couple is planning to move to the home in Doniphan.

Ronald Lowe joined the printing firm as an employee only a week ago, a spokesman in Doniphan reported.

Autos hit 3 bicyclists

Three boys riding bicycles were struck by cars and injured in separate accidents during the weekend.

T.C. Williams, 14, of 161 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, suffered a hematoma to the top of his head and abrasions to both legs when his bicycle and the auto of Eugene Bell, 903 Bissell St., Madison, collided in Circle Drive at Lee Wright Homes at 4:40 p.m. Saturday. He was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and was released.

Bruce Wayne Dandridge, 9, of 1120 Logan St., Venice, was hurt when his bicycle and the car of Mack Cooper, 401 Selb St., Venice, collided at Selb and Calhoun streets in Venice at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. He was admitted to the local hospital with a hematoma to the back of his head.

Jerry Brichler Jr., 8, of 2219 Bern Ave., was involved in an accident with the auto of Blas Sentiff, 3312 Wabash Ave., after Sentiff's car skidded 65 feet to avoid striking another car and hit the youth's bicycle at Wabash and Dawn avenues at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. The boy was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital with bruises to his right elbow and upper back, a hematoma to the back of his head and injuries to his abdomen.

Levee district sewer breaks

Fifteen breaks in sewer lines maintained by the East Side Levee and Sanitary District—including one in a storm-water line behind the Madison pumping station—have created an emergency situation which is expected to cost $2 million in repairs, according to William "Mike" Ebersoldt of Venice, a Madison County levee district trustee.

Ebersoldt, who was named last week as the levee district's flood disaster agent to handle claims for flood damages to district facilities, said an Army C-57 was employed during the weekend to fly pumps and pipe from points in Nevada and Montana to Scott Field for use in pumping around the major breaks.

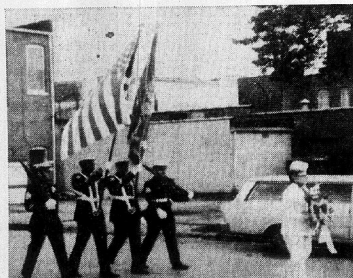

More than 3,000 feet of 12-inch pipe, a 10-inch pump and a six-inch pump were among supplies and materials that have been acquired by the levee district on a lease basis. Ebersoldt said the supplies will be leased on a 90-day basis, after which the levee district will be required to advertise for bids to purchase the supplies.

The major breaks are in one of the district's largest sanitary sewer lines off Route 3 at Cahokia, serving a number of subdivisions in that area. Ebersoldt said the 3,000 feet of pipe flown here by plane will be needed to pump sewage around a series of breaks in that line. The sewage will be pumped from manhole to manhole, he said.

'Parade of Flags,' new tribute to area war dead mark Memorial Day

Color guard contingents from the U. S. Marine Corps and Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, led about 200 marchers in downtown Granite City yesterday in the annual "Parade of Flags," one of three separate Memorial Day observances held in the Quad-Cities.

The traditional Memorial Day

date, Wednesday, May 30, will be marked with services at 9:30 a.m. on the lawn of City Hall in Granite City under sponsorship of the Daughters of Union Veterans Tent 594.

Speaking at a program on the lawn at Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 on Broadway, Venice, was Miss Dorothy Hinson of Madison, president of the Fifth Division, Illinois Department American Legion Auxiliary.

The area was marged with small white crosses, symbolizing deceased veterans from the two communities. The Venice High School Band provided music for the occasion and representatives of Boy Scout Troop 1, sponsored by the Venice Lions Club, conducted the flag ceremony.

Initiating the observance in Granite City was dedication of a bronze plaque bearing the names of 125 deceased men and one woman who lost their lives in World War II, the Korean conflict and Vietnam.

Charles Wilkins, commander of Amvets Post 51, dedicated the Quad-Cities' newest tribute to deceased Armed Forces personnel.

The veterans' organization arranged the memorial project under the direction of Steve Konovich, an Amvets officer, and the plaque was donated by Joseph Gilk, president of Gilk's Department stores and a World War II Army veteran.

Also participating in the dedication program were members of the Granite City High School Band, the Rev. Edward Gresh of St. Margaret Mary Church and Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler.

Mrs. Charlotte Damal, president of Amvets Auxiliary Post 51, led a wreath at the base of the new memorial.

Girl and Boy Scout units carrying traditional flags, each honoring a deceased veteran, marched from the Disabled American Veterans' headquarters on 18th Street to Memorial Park across from St. Elizabeth Hospital for services at 10 a.m. yesterday.

Representatives of Tri-City American Legion Post 113 and Auxiliary, Amvets Post 51 and Auxiliary, Q u a d - C i t y Navy Chapter 53 and Auxiliary took part in the parade and commemoorative services.

At the DUV services scheduled Wednesday morning, Captain Ronald Kerley, local Salvation Army commander, will offer prayer and Mayor Schuler will give the welcoming address. Music will be furnished by two local school children, Mrs. Sylvia Turner, Tent 90 patriotic instructor, advised.

Levee district

are expected to develop as the water table recedes and the ground begins drying out, Ebersold said. Cost of repairs will be borne by the federal government with which the district will file claims for assistance under the flood disaster program.

The break in the stormwater line behind the Madison pumping station is near the break that occurred in that line and was repaired in 1969 when a similar series of sewer breaks occurred in a period of heavy rains and subsequent flooding.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Supreme Court has begun consideration of briefs filed in the appeal by the two Madison County levee trustees of a Belleville Circuit Court ruling that held unconstitutional a state law splitting the East Side district along county lines.

The high court agreed Thursday to consider the case without oral arguments, and agreed at the same time to consider the appeal in a Madison County Circuit Court ruling, which limited levee district spending, on the same basis.

Public aid management jobs cut, aides hired

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

Springfield — So far, 20 of the target of 50 middle management positions have been eliminated by acting public aid director Joel Edelman and their salaries used to hire 40 new case aides.

The moves are part of an overall reorganization in the office which has faced serious problems in certain areas while meeting federal demands that public aid services be split up within the department.

The federal requirement separates income maintenance services from social services, with social service case work in future to be provided only to adult aid recipients who want and request it.

Barbara Wright, public information officer in the department, said presently social services are being provided about on the same basis as before, indicating that not many recipients quit accepting case work when they had a choice.

In other parts of his reorganization to put more authority at the local level, Edelman has eliminated two deputy directors posts, through which most executive staff reporting was done, and has instead set up seven new bureaus, all reporting directly to him.

The deputy directors, David Bonhard and Jim Brown, are still on the staff, under new titles. Bonhard is now assistant to the director, and Brown is Edelman's top aide.

While Edelman has a goal of 50 middle management positions to be eliminated in the Springfield staff, the Cook County staff in Chicago is being urged to follow the same approach.

Mrs. Wright said the middle management position eliminations so far have resulted chiefly either from re-assignment or normal attrition as vacancies occur, they are not refilled, but the salary money is used instead to hire case aides "usually at the $600 to $700 a month level."

There have been few resignations over the increased work loads for field personnel, or the re-assignment of middle management personnel, Mrs. Wright said, noting the turn-over is in fact somewhat lower than normal.

mal in the department just now. Shortly after the separation policy was implemented at the start of the year, the staff of one Chicago office walked out in protest over the increased amount of work, but additional staff was added to the office and the situation there has eased, Mrs. Wright said.

Original plans had called for transferring a case work functions to the department of children and family services, but this apparently has been abandoned, and case work functions now will remain with the department of public aid.

To meet this service demand, some additional staff will probably have to be hired, Mrs. Wright said, but the size of the increase is not yet known.

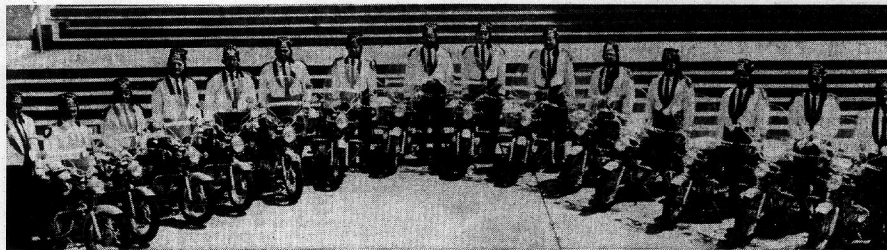

The seven new bureaus set up by Edelman are drawn largely along the lines of services demanded by separation, and include bureaus for income maintenance, social services, medical services, fiscal management, data processing, personnel and administrative services, and quality control and program evaluation.

This last will work chiefly to implement findings of the governor's task force on ineligible recipients and overpayments. The task force is expected to submit its findings by the end of this month.

The Kiwanis Breakfast Club heard a talk by Mark Yehling, a club member and assistant district Boy Scout executive for the Uniwah District on the future curriculum of the Granite City School system at a meeting Thursday morning at Grant City Restaurant.

Yehling informed the club members that representatives of Quad-City Service Clubs and local businesses meet each Wednesday to discuss job opportunities for students who do not wish to attend college.

The weekly meetings are held from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the Granite City Board of Education office to plan courses to prepare pupils for jobs in the community after graduation.

This long-range planning program has been set up by Dr. Michael J. Bakalis, state superintendent of schools, the speaker said.

Members of the newly-formed club who will serve as delegates to the meetings are Norman Kinder and Jack Mulach. Ray Grisham, president, opened the meeting and introduced guests from Edwardsville, the Kiwanis Lieutenant Governor for District 14, Louis Enlow, Homer Runge, Harry Mallory and Richard Coleman.

The president also appointed activity chairman to serve this year. They are Norman Hall, club meetings; Richard Wade, membership and development; B. J. Davis, youth services; the Rev. Bob Worley, citizenship service, and William Herman, major emphasis program.

An explanation of the duties and responsibilities of the committees and chairmen were explained by Enlow.

Inquest pending in fatal shooting case

Official investigations are continuing in the fatal shooting May 22 at West 20th Street and Illinois Avenue of a 16-year-old burglar suspect. Services for the victim, Collins were conducted Friday afternoon at a Granite City funeral home, with burial taking place at St. Joseph's.

The inquest date was still uncertain at noon today. May 22 at the funeral home, Rogers Niesporek, 19, charged with burglary and contributing to the delinquency of a minor, alleged Friday that no warning shots were fired before an officer fatally wounded the 16-year-old.

He said Collins followed him from a tavern building and was shot, followed by several more shots before Niesporek halted. Niesporek said he had been drinking and were to spend the night together after attending a relative's funeral.

His version differs from the police report, which said that Collins continued fleeing after warning. Tony Zupic said the group of about 20 friends of the two visited police and other downtown locations Friday, voicing dissatisfaction with the procedures followed.

Air reconnaissance produces 2nd tractor

An aerial reconnaissance over the Collinsville area Friday evening enabled the recovery of a second tractor, attached with mowing equipment, stolen last week from Lakeside Airport on Highway 111, William Nichols, operator of the airport facility, said today.

A Granite City man, Andrew W. Wiley, 27, of the 2100 block of Washington Avenue, was charged with theft by Collinsville police last week after the man was halted on the Belt Line on the outskirts of Collinsville, allegedly driving one of the two tractors missing from the airport hangar.

Wiley pleaded innocent and requested a jury trial when he appeared in court Thursday at the City Hall in Collinsville. He was released on $1,500 bond pending a trial date being set.

The second vehicle, valued at $2,000, was not recovered at the time. Nichols said that he and the equipment owner, Al Haeffner of Spanish Lake, Mo., made an aerial survey of the Collinsville area Friday and spotted the tractor in a yard. The equipment was visible from the streets when Haeffner and Nichols drove to the residence accompanied by a Collinsville policeman.

An investigation is continuing and the probability of additional charges is pending, Nichols said.

A trail of bubble gum led to the arrest of James Edwards, 17, of 327 (rear) Weaver St., Venice, at 4 a.m. Monday.

Firemen and police answered a fire alarm at 3:10 a.m. Monday at Ira King's Confectionery, 313 Weaver St.

Officers at the scene heard a burglar alarm and found a window had been broken out. Near the window police found a hammer, a package of "Big Arretes," a pack of gum and some cakes.

Police reported they found Edwards standing near the door and when questioned he allegedly refused to go to the station. He was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Most of the interior of the confectionery was gutted by the fire and the stock was ruined. It was reported.

WARRIOR GOLFERS who have completed their season at 11 wins, 12 losses and one tie, are left to right, front, Mark Harbison, Clay Winfield and Brad Bickhaus, and back, Don Gresco, Bruce Lattimore, Tim Behrens, Rick Bohnenstiehl and Coach Harry Lane. Goller Bill Skirball was absent. Lane completed his final year as a golf coach. Lattimore and Winfield are the only graduating seniors. The others will be split between the city's two high schools next year.

Warrior golfers end year, bid farewell to Coach Harry Lane

Golfers of Granite City High School bid farewell to their coach of three years standing, Harry Lane, as they closed their season this month.

Lane, who will head the mathematics department at Granite City High School/North next year, led the squad to 11 wins, 12 losses and one tie this season.

The team also was fourth in the district among 20 schools and was fifth at the conference meet. In the annual Quincy Invitational tournament, the Warriors placed 25th among 33 schools.

Eight golfers lettered this year, including two seniors, Bruce Lattimore and Clay Winfield. The other lettermen include three juniors and three sophomores who will return next year but will be divided among the two high schools.

"If they were not splitting, next year's team would probably be the best golf team Granite City ever had," Coach Lane commented.

With the opening of the new CHS/N, Lane predicts two good teams, but not as strong as if the lettermen were to remain together.

Junior Rick Bohnenstiehl and sophomore Tim Behrens will go to North next year while juniors Bill Skirball and Brad Bickhaus and sophomores Don Gresco and Mark Harbison will remain at South.

South should be really good with these four, and North will have two who are very good," Lane said.

The coach named Lattimore, who played three years at Granite City and earned two letters, as captain of this year's team, an honorary title accorded after the season closes.

Gresco had the low average score for the Warriors this year with 42 strokes for nine holes. Winfield, Harbison and Bickhaus each had season averages of 43 strokes and Bohnenstiehl, Skirball and Behrens each averaged rounds of 44. Lattimore's average was 45.

Brad Hiles was presented the Pat Rich Scholar Athlete Plaque Award, a plaque, at the annual Recognition Day Assembly at Granite City High School last week. Ranney Rich made the presentation.

Other athletes honored for various sports were:

Soccer: state champions for 1972, Carl Dake and Randy Worthen, team captains; Steve Powderly, most valuable player.

Phil Hill, Pete Musilli and Bill Schnefke, starting lettermen.

Football: Jon Stagner, most valuable player, most valuable back, all area first team; Brad

Hiles, most valuable lineman, all area first team, co-captain; Brad Weiss, Clay Winfield and Dave Macios, co-captains.

Wrestling: Kerry Johnson, tri-captain, state tournament '73, sectional champion '73, district champion '72 and '73. All area '73.

career with Cowboys

Jim Becker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Becker, 2173 Robert St., has ended his college baseball career for the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys in Abilene, Tex. Becker will graduate in August with a bachelor's degree in law enforcement.

Becker, who graduated in May 1969 from Granite City High School, played baseball for the Warriors and also during the summer for the local American Legion team.

Becker did double duty for the Cowboys his last season, playing right field when he wasn't pitching so that his hitting could be utilized.

Becker pitched a no-hitter against Trinity this year after hitting a pair of home runs in the game.

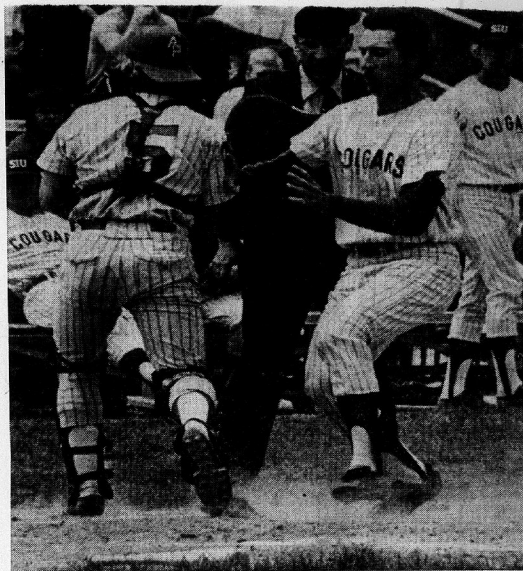

Two seasons ago he downed Pan American University Broncos who were ranked No. 1 in the nation at the time. He set the all-time Cowboy record for strikeouts with 17 in one game in 1971.

Coach Doug Smith regards

the highlight of Becker's career as his performance this season against Texas Lutheran. "That was a key game for us," Smith recalled. "All Jim did was to pitch the entire game, strikeout 14 batters and hit a two-run double in the bottom of the ninth to win the game." Becker is married to the former Gloria Graham and resides with his wife in Abilene.

LOOKS LIKE HE WAS OUT, but he was safe by a mile. SUE's Jerry Pilcher comes home safely in a game with Austin Peay State. The ball had, in fact, gone past the catcher.

Trojan athletes cited at All Sports Banquet

The varsity athletes of the Madison High School's cross country, basketball, baseball, track and football teams were honored at an "All Sports Banquet" last week in the MHS cafeteria.

Wade James, assistant superintendent of schools, was master of ceremonies and Joe May, a sports announcer, was the guest speaker.

Larry Graham, cross country coach, presented a most valuable player award to Kevin Jackson.

Graham, also head basketball coach, presented special awards to Charles Lucas as most valuable player, Roger Glasper as best defensive player, Anthony Matthews as best rebounder and Jerry Belford and Glasper as co-captains.

Baseball Coach Ron Davis presented his sports most valuable player award to Jay Greer, the Trojan shortstop and leading hitter.

Track awards were made by Coach Charles Stepiet to Chris Stanley as most valuable player, John Newsome for hustle and enthusiasm, Kevin Boyd as best prospective upper classman, Mike Walker as best prospective underclassman, Willie Sheary as most improved player and Robin Pritchard as best field man.

HEMOPHILIAC PATIENT Terry Mark Schofield, 39, is recovering from a brain aneurysm. He required 39 units of fresh frozen plasma and units of packed red cells as a result of bleeding associated with a nose injury suffered on May 18.

Red Cross blood center proves vital to hemophiliac student

Terry Mark Schofield is 15 years old, an age when boys like to "play rough." But he runs a greater risk than most when he gets in the way of a fist, he is a hemophiliac.

On May 18, Mark, a ninth grader at Grigsby Junior High School was changing classes, "walking down the hall, pushing and shoving, the way kids do," as his mother describes, when a boy turned and punched him in the nose.

As a result, there was a tear in the tissue of his nose. Because he is a hemophiliac, the bleeding was considered extremely serious and he was rushed to Cardinal Glennon Memorial Hospital, St. Louis.

As of Friday, after he had received 39 units of fresh frozen plasma and two units of packed red cells from the Red Cross Blood Center, the bleeding had stopped. He is recovering from the ill effects and from pneumonia, which followed.

Fresh frozen plasma contains the anti-hemophilic factor, which is necessary for clotting of blood. Mark is genetically unable to produce this factor. Each unit of fresh frozen plasma is drawn from one unit of whole blood.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby J. Schofield of Granite City, have expressed appreciation that blood was immediately available for him when it was needed in an emergency.

Because the Red Cross supply of blood must be constantly replenished, so that blood will be available for hundreds of hospital patients who require transfusions, the Tri-City Park Tabernacle Church is helping the Schofields replace the blood used for Mark. The Schofields attend that church.

Thirty-five donors were transported by church bus to the Red Cross Blood Center, 4801 Washington Blvd., St. Louis, Saturday.

Previously, the Schofields recruited donors from among friends, relatives and fellow workers to make replacements for 24 units of fresh frozen plasma provided by the Red Cross for Mark in November 1972. At that time, he suffered a cut lip.

The Schofields are softball enthusiasts. Mrs. Schofield plays on the team sponsored by Kentucky Fried Chicken. Schoolfield plays on the Tri-City Park Tabernacle church team.

His daughter, Cheryl, 13, plays on the Mitchell Recreation team and Mark plays for the team sponsored by Vaughn's Pharmacy.

Mrs. Schofield works for the Shell Oil Co., St. Louis; her husband is employed by Run Transport Co., Wood River.

Annexation is challenge

The Nameoki Town Board decided at a busy meeting Saturday morning to initiate legal action against annexation by Granite City of a 10-acre plant site adjacent to the Car-gill Road elevator.

Town Board members said the site apparently is not contiguous to any part of the city.

Formal annexation has not yet occurred. They took the position that it could set a precedent leading to piecemeal dismemberment of the township, since municipal annexation transfers territory to Granite City Township.

The board also decided to take steps to oppose school annexations dating back to 1968, including Granite City municipal actions to annex Grigsby Junior High School and Granite City High School/North.

Those actions involved strip annexations along streets and highways, it was contended.

A showing is still possible that the cost of a 1975 township election may be avoided. If Senate Bill 580 becomes law.

It already has been voted to extend the terms of highway commissioners until 1977, and the pending bill would do the same regarding supervisors, a decision brought before the board.

Other township officials were elected in 1973 to four-year terms; the supervisor and road commissioner were chosen in 1971.

It was decided to notify State Park fire district trustees, appointed by the township of economic interest statement requirements.

A 1973-74 budget of $104,406 for the town found and $92,485 for general assistance was adopted following a public hearing.

An internal change within the proposed town fund budget lowered the contingent fund from $3,000 to $4,000 and raised the office equipment appropriation from $1,000 to $2,000. The change relates to a copying machine.

It was decided to hire an architect to design expansion and improvement of the town hall, 200 N. Main St., in the Town Hall. No decision was made on which architect to employ; the building committee will make a recommendation.

The town board formally enacted a resolution appropriating $100,000 for the town hall, received in federal revenue sharing funds during the 1972-73 and 1973-74 fiscal years.

The board also approved $50,000 for an environmental cleanup program, $20,000 to replace a State Park place account, $10,000 for township building improvements, $10,000 for the Long Lake Fire Department highway account, $10,000 for acquisition and development of township parks and $3,000 for animal control.

Noting the environmental cleanup allocation, the town board went on record as pointing out that share revenue being "to each resident of both the incorporated and unincorporated areas of Nameoki Township equally."

The board resolved that the incorporated city of St. Louis and part of Madison—will be included in the environmental program "providing the municipalities so agree."

Such a program would be administered by the township operating with municipal, road or street committees.

Citing the Davis-Bacon Act, the board also approved the Davis-Bacon Act, the board voted to review and approve all applications for employment of laborers and mechanics.

A religious celebration service planned by the graduating students of Granite City High School under the direction and assistance of Dr. L. Jim Anthis, pastor of Central Christian Church, will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Granite City Memorial gymnasium instead of the usual baccalaureate services.

The young people have written three contemporary lyrics to include Call to Celebration, Confessional and Dedication in which all parents and students will participate, led by the class president.

Dr. Anthis will serve as liturgist and community responses are to be led by James DuMont, principal.

The committee planning the event suggested those who attend wear casual clothes. All parents and friends are invited.

Spring blossoms adorn churches as area couples repeat marriage vows

Miss Carol Gauen is wed at Third Baptist

Miss Carol Gauen became Mrs. Wayne Farrington in an early evening ceremony on May 12 at the Third Baptist Church, 2601 Grand Ave. The Rev. Carl Watkins officiated.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Gauen, 2004 Amos Ave., and the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farrington, reside at 1807 Lake St.

Large green ferns in white urns and arrangements of white, lavender and pink spring flowers decorated the altar. Branches of candelabra holding lighted tapers illuminated the setting for the 7 o'clock service.

John Daum, a cousin of the bride, and Donald Farrington, a brother of the groom, served as candlelighters.

Miss Cheryl Harper presided at the organ as the Rev. David T. Richardson, associate pastor, sang "Twelfth of Never," "One Hand One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mr. Gauen escorted his daughter down the white carpeted aisle and gave her in marriage. She selected a floor-length gown of white organza over taffeta, featuring a high-waistline accented with Venice lace. The pleated V-style yoke of the fitted bodice was enhanced with lavender tulle ribbon.

Matching trim created the cuffs of the long sheer puffed sleeves and formed a ruffled flounce at the hemline.

She wore a Juliet cap to secure a cathedral-length veil edged with a delicate lace and she carried a cascade of white, lavender carnations and greenery, festooned with lavender tulle ribbon.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Karen Cline, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Misses Cathy and Cheryl Farrington, sisters of the groom, and Miss Janet Gauen, another sister of the bride, wore identical lavender-colored dresses.

Designed in an Empire style, the frocks were created with a multi-colored embroidered v-neck bodice edged in a voile ruffle. Ruffling also formed the stand up collar and cuffed the long puffed sleeves.

They held white wicker baskets filled with pink and lavender carnations and baby breath.

The groom chose Joe Novosel as his best man, Dennis Cline, Ronald Farrington, the groom's brother, Mike Novosel, Phil Nelson and Nick Novosel completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

Mrs. Sherrie Nelson registered guests at receptions held in the fellowship hall of the church and later at Long Lake Firemen's Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrington, parents of the groom, entertained members of the wedding party at a rehearsal dinner given in their home.

Both mothers chose formal-length gowns. Mrs. Gauen wore a blue double knit dress made in an Empire style with matching accessories.

The groom's mother, Mrs. S. Farrington, selected a pink double knit frock styled in an Empire design complemented with white accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

After a wedding trip, the couple has returned to reside at 4068 Buene Ave.

The bride is employed at General American Life Insurance Co. Her husband works at Granite City Steel Co.

Mr. Raymond gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a gown of French silk peau de soie styled with an Empire bodice and an A-line skirt.

Embossed daisies were scattered on the long, sheer bell sleeves, edged at the cuffs with a delicate lace, and matching daisies, appliqued in a leaf design with pearls, added interest to the skirt.

A flat bow of white lace and pearls secured her full-length veil of bridal illusion and she carried a French colonial bouquet of spring blossoms and pink roses.

Miss Sharon Bogosian was maid of honor, serving with bridesmaids, Mrs. Alice Doer, sister of the groom and Miss Lois Ridener.

The groom's mother, Mrs. S. Schreiber, selected a pink double knit frock styled in an Empire design complemented with white accessories. Both wore orchid corsages.

The Rev. George Radevich of St. Peter & Paul Church of Alton, a close friend of both families of the bride and groom, performed the double ring ceremony. The Rev. Michael Kuse and the Rev. Radosevich concelebrated the nuptial mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bradshaw, accompanied by William Hart, sang "The Wedding Song," "The First Time I Ever Saw Your Face," "We've Only Just Begun," "Sunrise-Sunset," "I'll Walk with God," "Whither Thou Goest" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Edward Sager, 250 N. Clinton St., Collinsville. The bridegroom's parents are Lieutenant and Mrs. Charles Edward Carney Jr., 2057 Regent Place, East St. Louis. Mrs. Carney is the former Barbara Lee Edgington of Madison. His father is a lieutenant in the East St. Louis Police Department.

Miss Sager's only sister, Mrs. Terry Falline, was the matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Sandy Maderich of Collinsville, Mrs. Kathleen Sights, Troy, Miss Holly Schaefer, Miss JoAnn Bahich, Miss Sue Prada and Mrs. Paul Rosch, all of Belleville.

The groom's cousins, Miss Karen Carney of East St. Louis, and Miss Kathleen Rakowski of Granite City, were junior bridesmaids.

The bride's niece, Miss Amy Rachael Falline, was the flower girl.

Gerald Kalicki of Collinsville served as best man. Groomsmen were Steve Malec, Paul Kalicki, Tom Wiegand, David Laschowski and James Shay, all of East St. Louis, and Terry Sasyk, cousin of the groom, of Madison. Paul Bielicki, the risant, Mo., cousin, of the groom, served as ringbearer.

Altar boys were J. R. and Robert Arth.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original gown of silk organza with Venice and Brussels lace, hand beaded with pearls and crystals over champagne tulle. The bodice was made with a high rise waistline, long fitted sleeves, trimmed with Venice lace, ending in a ruffle of Brussels lace encircling the hem of the gown and train.

The full skirt and cathedral train were trimmed with Venice lace which also edged the neckline. A deep flounce of Brussels lace encircled the hem of the gown and train.

A ballerina veil and cathedral-length detachable veil of nylon illusion were secured to a Camello cap of matching fabric and beaded lace. She carried a cascade of pink, yellow and white roses.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore identically styled dresses. Mrs. Falline was in romance pink, and the bridesmaids were in orchid, pink, mint green, aqua, apricot and maize. The junior bridesmaids wore powder blue gowns made alike.

Fashioned of flocked polyester sheer print over chromium, the attendants' frocks had floor-length circular skirts ending in a slight train. Lace edged ruffles trimmed the round neckline, short sleeves and hem and grosgrain ribbon encircled the waistline. They wore hairband picture hats in matching colors with a ruffle of the same material of their dress emphasizing the trim with matching ribbon, bows, and streamers.

They carried bouquets of pastel colored daisies festooned with ribbons to match their gowns. The flower girl wore a white flocked sheer dress made like the bridesmaids' frocks and a white bonnet of the same fabric. She carried a white satin basket of pastel colored daisies.

Mrs. Sager, mother of the bride, wore a peach chiffon floor-length gown. The satin bodice was beaded in pearls and the bishop sleeves ended with pearl beaded cuffs. She carried a green cymbidium corsage on her wrist.

The mother of the groom, Mrs. Carney, wore a gown of pale pink silk chiffon made with an Empire waistline with matching beaded collar and cuffs. She had matching accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Elks Club in Belleville. Miss Karen Bielicki of Florissant and the Misses Karen and Barbara Sasyk of Madison served as hostesses.

Miss Sager was graduated from Collinsville High School, Department of Nursing Education of Belleville Area College. Mr. Carney is a graduate of St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo., attends Belleville Area College. He is a Police Officer with the East St. Louis Police Department.

The young couple will spend their honeymoon in New Orleans, La., and Biloxi, Miss.

Volunteer award to Navy Mother

Members of Quad-City Navy Mother's Club attending the Volunteer Service Awards meeting held at Jefferson Barracks Veterans Hospital last week were Mrs. Mary Busler, commanding officer, and past commanders, Mrs. Frances Westbrook, Mrs. Pearl Griffin and Mrs. Alberta Edgington.

Mrs. Busler received an award for 100 hours of volunteer service. Other awards were presented for a total of 36,000 hours of service provided by volunteers at the hospital. Refreshments were served following the presentations.

Local Navy Mother's also attended the installation of the Highland Blue Jackets Unit 540 held in Highland last week.

Those installed were service recruiters, Staff Sergeant Jim Misersang, Gunnery Sergeant Ron Delist, Chief Petty Officer Gary Wilson and Petty Officer First Class William Bunch. Mrs. Mary Bush of Highland was installed as commander for the coming year.

Progress on use of Army base; scissors needed for red tape

The first breakthrough has occurred in the effort to convert unused portions of the Granite City Army installation to constructive use by other government agencies or private industry.

Seventy-two acres are expected to be declared excess soon, including a 40-acre tract near Madison as well as highway right-of-way and land for a sewage treatment plant.

Congressman Melvin Price and the other instrumental in this forward step deserve praise.

Considerable "red tape" may remain, unfortunately. The sequence leading to business use for example, would require separate studies and actions by the Defense Department, Armed Services Committee, General Services Administration, other federal departments and agencies, the state government and then a number of local-level governmental units.

Time is important because idle facilities tend to lose their value and adaptability. Any responsible effort to cut through the bureaucratic maze would be appropriate and appreciated.

Instances of tragedy and triumph in Quad-City area last week

Triumph of the human spirit always seems to emerge, even in the midst of tragedy.

In the same week that a 16-year-old local resident tragically lost his life in an incident which followed an emotional upset and a period of drinking, there was a tragedy of a different kind during repair of a business sign along West Chain of Rocks Road.

Electrical wires shocked and burned two workmen, knocking one to the ground and leaving another atop a ladder, his clothes burning. Steve Smith, 17, of Rural Route 1 was killed. He was wearing a dark shirt and dark pants.

Since the ladder remained close to the wires, he stayed with the burned man for nearly 45 minutes, keeping him awake, reassuring him and preventing any movement that might have led to further electrical burns.

Eventually, the worker was removed by firemen with a "smoke" bucket and Smith was able to return down the ladder to safety. He merits high commendation.

His calmness during the crisis, his compassion for the injured man and his willingness to risk a similar fate reflected high credit on the young man and his selfless act of heroism.

Employers being asked to notify center of summer youth jobs

There probably will not be enough summer jobs for the 16-21 age group here, but the center which has been opened at 1255 Niedringhaus Ave may link up the job opportunities and applicants in a more effective manner than previous programs.

Participating agencies are the Co-ordinated Youth Services and Illinois State Employment Service.

If employers attempt to make the maximum number of positions available, and communicate them to the center, they will be able to find work and earnings which help them in continuing their studies this fall.

The same telephone number will be utilized for job prospects to obtain appointments for interviews at the center.

Need a handy reason for meat price rise? Blame women's lib

Women's liberation has been blamed for a lot of things, but a new comment may top them all for silliness.

One of the most improbable explanations of meat price rises, especially those affecting the better cuts of beef, is that of a Chicago agricultural economist, who says the "lib" movement is at fault.

"As more women enter the labor market, those who must also cook for a family are constantly seeking ways to save time. The higher-priced cuts of beef," he says, "take the least amount of time to prepare. Consequently, there has been an enormous increase in demand for sirloin, T-bone and porterhouse steaks."

His price "beef" is not directed solely at women, or at least against American women. He concedes that the fast-rising worldwide appetite for beef is a big factor, draining from the U.S. much of its supply and also reducing the amount of meat available for import.

Political espionage in past campaigns is recalled

By JAMES GARY
Copy News Service

WASHINGTON — It has long been assumed that both the Democratic and Republican parties carried out acts of political sabotage and espionage in major campaigns long before Watergate became a household word.

But precise information on the extent of such past practices and the seriousness of what was attempted has always been hard to come by.

Yet such information, even when imprecise, is important in providing an approximation of the historical context out of which the Watergate case arose.

That case began last June 17, when some members of President Nixon's reelection campaign organization were caught — or later implicated in — an attempt to plant or remove electronic listening devices in Democratic national headquarters in the Watergate apartment complex here.

The ensuing breaking and entering charge, plus a widening array of related charges, have hurt the Republican Party and raised serious questions about persons high up in the Nixon administration.

Yet Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., claims his 1964 campaign, when he was the Republican presidential nominee, also was systematically subjected to espionage and sabotage by the Democrats.

He told newsmen at a breakfast meeting on May 3, that his Democratic opponent, the incumbent President Lyndon Johnson, was receiving copies of his (Goldwater's) speeches, even before they were made, indicating an intelligence leak in Goldwater's own organization.

There was also a repetitive pattern of bomb scares that plagued the Goldwater campaign plane that year. The scares invariably surfaced after the Goldwater plane was airborne, forcing him to land at the next available airport, thus delaying and disrupting the day's schedule.

Goldwater charged, too, that the Democrats were involved in political wiretapping in the 1972 campaign as well as the Republicans but offered no evidence. He acknowledged his statement was based on "a few little facts" which he declined to disclose.

"Just be patient ...," he said. "You've been reporting hearsay for a long time. Report this ... This came to me from sources I can't divulge. ... The Democrats are going to be in such a real vivid, vivid way."

But Goldwater acknowledged what he had heard was not of the same degree of seriousness as Watergate and was not about to lead to any criminal indictments.

A day after the Arizona senator made his accusations the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram in California reported in a copyrighted story that President Nixon's medical records were rifled by burglars during the 1972 presidential campaign.

Dr. John Lungen was quoted as saying that although money was in plain view, it was not stolen.

"I don't believe that any of the (Nixon) records were missing, but the papers were out of their chronological order and obviously scrutinized," Lungen said. "There is the suggestion that they might have been photographed."

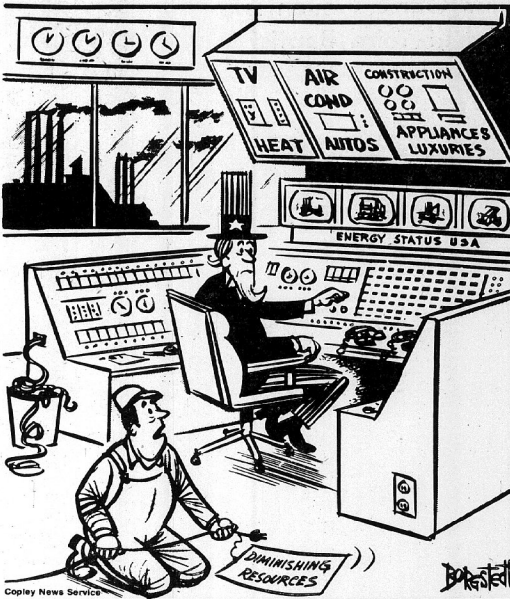

The implication was that information on the President's health or medical background might have been used against him in the campaign.

In a similar vein it has been learned that the offices of two Manhattan physicians who had treated former President John F. Kennedy were broken into before the 1960 Democratic national convention and the files under the initial "K" scattered around the room.

Kennedy's records, however, were filed under a code name and were not disturbed.

The offices of Dr. Janet G. Travell, who later became Kennedy's personal physician and the White House, also were broken into at the same time. Again, the burglars were unable to penetrate an inner steel door and get at the records.

Both efforts to obtain medical records of the President were acts of political sabotage, approach the Watergate case in seriousness because they involved the commission of a crime of breaking and entering.

SPACE AGE Fear of doom discounted

By FRANK MACOMBER
Military-Aerospace Writer

Some eminent scientists have predicted the world will come to a grinding halt and civilization will collapse by the year 2100 or thereabouts. The reason? Pollution, overpopulation, and consumption of resources growing all over the planet.

Dr. James C. Fletcher, boss of the federal space agency, doesn't buy this doomsday view of earth less than 100 years from now.

The main thesis of the scientists' pronouncement is that population, pollution and consumption are increasing, but that the planet-wide capacity to deal with these rates of growth is essentially fixed," he says.

"As they vary the assumptions, so they can vary the predicted future. But in each case they studied, they came up with essentially the same conclusion: if things are not made to stop growing — the 'zero growth' approach — there will be a total, catastrophic collapse of world civilization by the year 2100 or thereabouts."

Dr. Fletcher doesn't subscribe to the thesis that world civilization is doomed. The cause, he says, man is the center of civilization and now has the scientific and technological tools to save his planet.

He asks you to imagine a world 50 years from now, after it has taken advantage of the scientific knowledge and technical capabilities already created by space exploration.

"Take the climate," he suggests. "Think of a global weather network made up largely of observation satellite systems that constantly pour data into a computerized prediction system."

"This will let anyone have a 'now-cast' of the climate anywhere in the world, along with an up-to-date and accurate forecast valid for up to two weeks for any place in the world."

The economic values of knowing — not guessing — the weather are enormous. Dr. Fletcher says — to the farmer, the builder, the transportation system manager or the man who just wants to go fishing or play golf.

Dr. Fletcher also envisions deliberate weather modification and climate control on a local, regional and even global basis.

"The implications for human affairs are staggering — to eliminate the dangers of hurricanes, to relieve droughts, to improve living conditions (in storm and flood regions), to increase production and balance the world's imperiled economies, for instance," he explains.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration administrator concedes the world's water consumption rate is climbing as personal, farm and industrial demands grow.

"Even if we can manage the rainfall, or desalinate seawater, we still must husband this most fundamental part of the life chain," he warns. "By measuring the change in snow pack, by knowing the weather, by having stream gauges that monitor flow, quality, temperature and report back via satellite to central facilities, by watching erosion effects, pollution sources and usage patterns, we can develop regional water management systems that combine the aesthetic and the practical."

In the field of land use and management, Dr. Fletcher says, scientists will use satellite-generated map analyses of how land is being used, how it was managed in the past and how it should be put to use in the future.

"The planners, builders, managers, lawmakers and farmers will be able to make their decisions based on time information displayed in the form best suited to their particular interests," he adds.

Dr. Fletcher also points to earth-resources satellites like earth resources technology satellites (ERTS) which already are monitoring forest and crop diseases before the ranger or farmer can detect them.

For all these and other advances either existing or under development, Dr. Fletcher emphasizes,

She dashes to the store in search of sudden beauty and finds, instead, a chin strap made of elastic bands. The strap is designed to pull up and tighten the skin on the lower part of the face, primarily around the chin. Let her husband say what he will, Mladý is certain it will work.

Well ... maybe, says Today's Health. The effectiveness of the bands depends on how adept one is at applying them, and how much "facelifting" is needed. (Many people require a surgical facelift to achieve significant improvement.)

Facelift bands are tied around the head and attached at the temples with adhesive tape or glue; some are also anchored to a section of hair at the back of the head. The bands are supposed to be worn during the day, cleaned with soap and water, or a wig.

While they're not harmful in themselves, facelift bands can contribute to headaches if worn too tightly. But if Mladý

Steelmakers say they no longer can compete in world under '19th century' U. S. government rules

Because the Quad-Cities are affected so greatly by developments in the field of steelmaking, it may be of general interest to discuss the outlook as seen by the newly-elected chairman of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

"Some good news and some bad news" might be a way of summarizing the comments of Stewart S. Cort.

In his inaugural address at an AIST meeting held last week in New York, Cort predicted that strong steel demand will continue into 1974 and possibly longer.

He also warned that the steel industry may not be able to expand its capacity to meet the nation's steel needs without "enlightened federal tax and anti-trust policies."

Cort spoke on behalf of all steel firms in his new role as head of the American Iron and Steel Institute. He also is, not coincidentally, board chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp.

He noted that the steel industry has full order books, that the pressure of steel imports has lessened because of heavy demand abroad, and that the threat of an industry-wide strike has been eliminated for the next four years because of a "landmark agreement" just negotiated with the United Steelworkers.

He predicted that steel shipments will exceed 100 million tons for 1973 and said he had "a hunch" that industry profits this year are going to "look better — inadequate, but better than recent years."

The executive was referring to the fact that the industry's margin of profit per dollar of sales had sunk during the past several years to the lowest levels since the depression of the 1930s.

The First National City Bank of New York in its monthly economic letter for April 1973 showed these margins as 2.7 cents for 1971 and 3.3 cents for 1972.

"I've got a hunch that this bleak business cycle isn't going to slip into reverse on Dec. 31," Cort said.

"I think we've got a couple of good years ahead — and more than a couple of good years."

At the same time, however, he cautioned that the current import situation could be calamitous. And he urged a strengthening of the safeguard and fair trade provisions of the Administration's trade bill.

He said that he and other AIST officials will be appearing before Congress soon to urge the government to provide measures that "work quickly and effectively" against the "continuing threat of predatory exports by overseas producers."

He added that he is "cautiously optimistic" that the industry will obtain such measures.

Noting that other speakers at the meeting were dealing with the effects of the "energy crunch" on the industry, Cort launched into a description of the "capital crunch" which he said has been "guzzling" at the steel industry for a long time — and which he predicted would worsen.

Cort pointed out that the steel industry invested $17 billion in capital equipment in the decade beginning in 1962, that this total exceeded the steelmakers' cash flow by about $2.8 billion, and that as a result the industry wound up the decade with an additional $2.2 billion in long-term debt.

"On the credit side, our physical plant is in far better shape," he said. "We've got a lot of modern, efficient equipment. We don't take a back seat to any other steel industry in the world."

"But on the debit side, we didn't increase our production capacity. We're just sitting where we were 10 years ago."

Cort said, "Today, if we could make more steel, we could sell more steel," and, he continued, "we have to cope with the challenge of future demands."

"Even assuming the very high rate of growth in domestic markets for an added 20 million tons of raw steel capacity by 1980 — and some people put the number as high as 30 million tons —

"At the same time, we'll have to replace maybe an equal amount of existing capacity as it becomes obsolete."

"Throw in as much as $3 billion for pollution-control equipment, and you begin to see the magnitude of our need for investment capital. That's what I call an authentic 'capital crunch.'"

To overcome this crunch, the steel official said, the industry must have rational and realistic federal tax policies, including an effective capital cost recovery system, and an immediate write-off of pollution control facilities.

"From there we have to go on to get improvements that will help us do what the national interest demands — and that's to provide the capability to produce every pound of steel our country needs."

"It will take enlightened tax policies and something more," Cort emphasized. "It will take enlightened policies in the anti-trust area, too."

"Our offshore competitors have swiped a page from our book. They've achieved a free economy of scale that used to be the trademark of American production genius. Mergers, rationalizations and joint ventures — all these hard-headed business techniques have transferred our overseas rivals into very tough competitors."

"So, we've got to re-learn the lessons we taught them."

"We've got to find ways to do it, because of the sheer magnitude of capital costs, because we've got to avoid wasteful duplication of facilities, because we've got to avoid excessive social costs, and because going any other route would be a competitive disaster."

"So, there's got to be a re-examination of our country's anti-trust policies — policies that were formulated for a bygone age when there were lots of small economic units and far different market conditions," Cort declared.

"Let me tell you this — American business can't compete in the industrial world of the 20th century under rules made for the 19th century."

He pledged that he would take "the offensive" to get the steel industry's story across to Congress and to the people of America.

He urged the attending steelmakers to have representation in the nation's capital because "this industry needs every ounce of muscle we can mobilize — and we need it in Washington."

While he did not discuss the 1971 acquisition of Granite City Steel Co. by National Steel Corp., one of his points seemed to apply to it rather specifically.

Balancing and coordination of facilities, such as was accomplished through the meshing of U.S. Steel with National's Midwest Steel Division capabilities and needs, should not only be considered acceptable by all (it didn't make consumer advocate Ralph Nader happy) but actively encouraged as an essential step. Cort implies.

His appeal for basing most of America's steel production on American soil — through enabling U.S. steelmakers to be competitive with those in other parts of the world — may be well worth considering by both citizens and government policy-makers.

The ups and downs of history, repeated with wars and rumors, would indicate how hazardous it could be for this nation unless it has an adequate number of skilled, technically trained producers of such a vital material as steel.

MRS. MELVIN G. HUGHES, the former Miss Susan Jane Clasquin, a daughter of Mrs. Ruth Clasquin of Belleville and William Clasquin of Granite City. She was married at Hope United Church of Christ in Belleville.

Susan Clasquin becomes Mrs. Melvin G. Hughes

The wedding of Miss Susan Jane Clasquin and Melvin Grayson Hughes was solemnized at 7 o'clock on the evening of May 19 at Hope United Church of Christ in Belleville.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was the Rev. James H. Memerick.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Ruth Clasquin, 10 Marlo Drive, Belleville and William Clasquin, 258 Iowa St., Granite City. Mr. Hughes is a son of Mrs. Virginia Jones of Winston-Salem, N.C.

For her wedding, the former Miss Clasquin chose a full-length gown of peau de sole designed with a fitted bodice. A lavish V-style yoke of lace was edged with a wide pleated ruffle, accented with insertion ribbon, and a tiny ruffle detailed the high neckline.

The long sheer sleeves terminated at the wrists in lace cuffs, and a double-pleated flounce encircled the semi-full skirt. She wore a cathedral-length mantilla veil bordered in a matching trim.

Mrs. Sheri Duensing, a sister of the bride, was her only attendant. Clinton Duensing served the groom as best man.

A breath of fresh air in academe

By MARY LOU MANNING
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — Construction is now under way on the first permanent building of Sangamon State University, the new public affairs university of Illinois. The building, a $9.7 million library, will also house offices and classrooms until the remainder of the campus is completed.

The university, recently labeled "a breath of fresh air in academe" by an accreditation team, is now located in two areas of Springfield. The downtown facility is in the old Leland Hotel building and is termed the Capital Campus; the interim structures near Lake Springfield have been opened since 1970.

Sangamon State is the first upper level institution of higher education in the state beginning at the junior year level and continuing through one year of graduate work. With a curriculum stressing public affairs, SSU employs faculty members well-versed in this area. Two recent additions are former Lt. Governor Paul Simon, journalist and author; and James Worthy, once vice-president of Sears, Roebuck and undersecretary of commerce in the Eisenhower administration.

Twelve new programs have been submitted to appropriate boards for approval for the 1973-74 academic year. They include new degree programs in the field of public affairs; medical technology; physical sciences; social justice professions; creative arts; children, families and community services; community planning and area development; community arts management; mathematical systems; management; nursing; and health services administration.

Current programs include biological science, English and comparative literature, history, psychology and sociology, economics, history, and government; the four University Programs which focus on contemporary issues and the graduate programs in administration, public affairs reporting and human development counseling.

Created by the General Assembly, SSU has been fashioned to provide a new educational environment for transfers from the community colleges. Students lose no credits in transfer and, since every one at Sangamon State University is at least a junior, everyone is a transfer student.

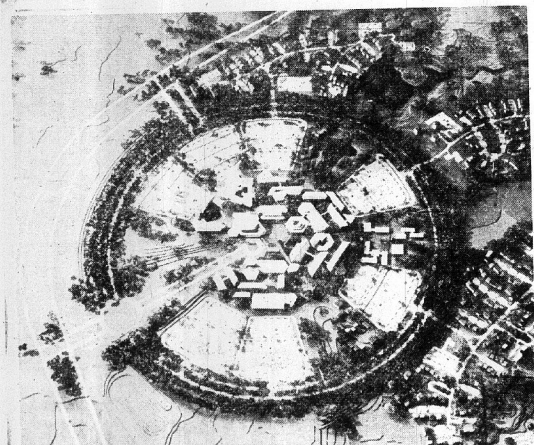

The accreditation team of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools recently summarized the institution this way:

"SSU is an exciting, dynamic institution with many strong features including a competent administrative team, dedicated faculty and staff, and motivated student body. It has strong community support and has been adequately financed by the state. It is a breath of fresh air in academe."

JEROME MILLER

... new director of state Department of Children and Family Services.

MODEL SCHOOL --- This is an architect's model of the proposed campus of Sangamon State University. "An exciting dynamic institution with many strong features..."

NEW SERVICES DIRECTOR

Jerome Miller expects change and controversy

By JOAN MURARO
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — "There is no way to bring about substantive change without controversy," according to Jerome Miller, recently approved as the new director of the state Department of Children and Family Services. He might have added there's no way to publicly call a politician a demagogue without generating some controversy, either.

In Massachusetts, where he headed a comparable agency for three and a half years before being appointed by Illinois Gov. Dan Walker, Miller:

1. Accomplished substantive changes.

2. Publicly called some politicians "demagogues."

3. Became labeled "controversial."

He's learned to live with it, and if he isn't likely to get the congeniality award from Demagogues, Unanimous, it doesn't seem to worry him.

"I think if you are charged with child advocacy, you have to take a strong stand," he says. "That can get you in trouble, because you're bound to make a mistake now and then. But I'm pretty willing to get into trouble taking a stand in behalf of a child, any time."

While he expects that eventually he's going to be in hot water, legislatively and elsewhere, in Illinois, he doesn't think it will be quite as soon, or as hot, as it was in Massachusetts, since Illinois has already done many of the things he generated heat about in his previous post. In Massachusetts, when he took over, he said, youngsters in department facilities still had their heads shaved, were dressed in drab uniforms and forced to keep silence most of the time. He did away with all that, amid initial screams from status quo advocates, which got louder when he tangled the patronage system heavily involved with the department.

Still, he's already seen some changes he wants to make in Illinois.

For instance, he feels the offices for the department, including his own, are too posh, too remote, too hard to reach. While he may not be able to get out of his own handsome modern surroundings on the fourth floor of the Lincoln Tower Plaza near the state Capitol, he wants regional and district offices to reevaluate their own situations and see if maybe they wouldn't be of more benefit in a storefront situation near the bulk of their clientele.

He hopes too to decrease the amount of short-term foster care with its attendant frustration and unsettling shuffling of dependent children and he wants to see higher compensation for foster parents.

Presently, he says, foster parents can't even cover expenses, particularly for transportation, with what they receive from the state.

He wants to speed up adoption of older children. He wants to see more of the hundreds of youngsters presently desperately in need of homes but not available for adoption, made available through court action. He hopes he can get the state and local bar associations to undertake this court action as a public project, drastically reducing the cost to the state.

He hopes to see a change away from caseworkers with 100 or more cases, to a system of largely "one-to-one" relationships, relying heavily on volunteers or para-professionals.

That can open up a whole new area of controversy, he admits. Studies have shown, he says, that carefully selected volunteers can be trained in a matter of weeks to do "outstanding" work with difficult youngsters in such areas as psychotherapy. The idea has not been developed, he says, because professionals are understandably less than enthused about a system which trains a housewife in what to do many of the jobs they have spent years in training to master.

When such a volunteer-oriented system is used, he says, the caseworker uses his professional skills and works with the volunteers, who in turn work directly with the client. This still leaves the professional caseworker with time to work directly with the really serious cases which require his professional expertise.

The big initial thrust in the department under his guidance is going to be in attacking child abuse, which presently results in six deaths a month in Illinois. What bothers him most, he says, is that most of the cases were repeat offenders; the children who died as a result of brutal mistreatment were already known to doctors or caseworkers because they had previously been mistreated, and yet allowed to remain in, or return to, the same dangerous situation.

All of these things are just starts, Dr. Miller also wants to see all juveniles now in custody of the Department of Corrections transferred to his department. Recently, the big majority of juveniles became wards of Children and Family Services rather than Corrections but a few remain there, and he wants these under his department too.

Above all, he says, he wants to create a new atmosphere, where youngsters through the state will know they needn't fear the department, but can find help there instead. In Massachusetts, he said, he did away with "all that silly stuff like squad cars and flashing lights and police" looking for a rule book, and says with a situation. "The kids almost always just go home," he said, so he just sent a caseworker to the home and almost always found the missing youngster right there.

Dr. Miller and his wife have no children, only two English shag dogs, but they had a foster son living with them in Massachusetts and probably will have one in Illinois after they're settled, he says.

When getting settled in his new job and new state, he has been keeping an eye on the Massachusetts department he left behind, and says with some "mixed emotions."

"It's getting along just fine without me. The changes, apparently, are permanent."

In fact, he says, it now is a political liability for a Massachusetts politician to administer support for long-term institutionalization for juveniles. Not all the kids made it, even the hours rate drops sharply, but a lot more do, and that, he feels, is worth any amount of controversy.

'RULES OF THE ROAD'

Study is key to success for drivers, examiners

By RANDY THOMAS
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — If you are one of the lucky million required to take a driver's license examination test this year, plan to study "Rules of the Road." For there is little chance of fooling even one of the 525 highly trained examiners who man the state's 139 testing stations.

Out to prove a point, the reporter neglected to read the book, only to fail the driving test.

Question: If no crosswalk or stop line is painted on the pavement, where do you pull up when approaching a stop sign? The answer, according to a stone-faced examiner, is behind the sidewalk. But it is interestingly enough, that fact is nowhere to be found in the rule book.

Chief driver's license examiner Ed Stubbfield said all of the state's license examiners must complete an intensive eight-week training course.

The freshman applicant is sent to the local testing station to observe and perform minor clerical work.

"Hopefully the applicant will acquire as much knowledge as he can," said Stubbfield. "Uniforms are quite expensive and before issuing them we like to give the applicant a chance to test the job."

The next step is a two-week training course in Springfield with detailed instruction in filling out forms, administering tests and even a bit of psychology to handle problem examinees. The course is offered in the evenings at the state's office in the Centennial Building.

Upon graduation, the prospective examiner is issued a blue uniform and sent back on the job to learn the art of administering a driving test.

The involve riding with a veteran examiner and observing him in action.

1 addition, all examiners are sent to Springfield periodically for a refresher course and a behind-the-scenes peek at the inner office operations. Altogether some 250 persons work in the Centennial Building office, processing about 40,000 to 45,000 driver's license applications which arrive daily in Springfield.

The applications first go through the accounting process where all money is collected and carefully counted.

They are then double-checked for accuracy, specifically names and birthdates, before being logged into the computer files.

Parker Strawn, station manager of the testing station, has estimated about 20 percent of his license applicants fail at least one section of the test on the first attempt. He said there has been no marked increase in failures since the current edition of "Rules of the Road" was issued. As people come back the second time, Strawn said, the failure rate drops sharply.

"I don't think we've taken 12 people off the road since I've been here," Strawn said. He's held the position for more than four years.

But even if a person fails the test the first time, Strawn said it's relatively easy to get a special authorization permit for a fourth and final attempt.

Nervousness, said Strawn, seems to be the No. 1 cause of failure, especially on the driving test.

MAPPING ILLINOIS

It's hard work keeping drivers on the right road

By JESSICA WEBER
Copley News Service

SPRINGFIELD — Every year, when the state highway map is published, the cartographers at the state transportation department get a letter of perhaps 30 typewritten pages, pointing out errors and suggesting improvements.

The letter comes, not from a professional state map-checker, but from a man in Oak Park who apparently makes a hobby of studying and checking up on the map.

The letter includes small errors in distances, new improvements not noted and other minutiae, and it does not neglect the portions of Missouri and other adjoining states that appear on the map.

"And he's always right. He must drive every mile of road," said Ken Aldrich, a scribe in the department, in awe.

Although the department's correspondent finds plenty of details to quibble about, about the most drastic mistake that ever got into print was a short section of highway labelled with the wrong number.

Confusing enough to motorists, no doubt; but still not bad considering the hours of exacting work and the thousands of details that go into mapping Illinois and the parts thereof.

The cartography department maps not only the state highway system, but also makes county maps showing roads plus farms, churches, and other "cultural development" along rural roads; and city maps.

The county and city maps may be purchased from the department; and of course the highway maps — two million are printed — are distributed free.

The process of getting all that information on paper with what is, according to cartographer James Blad, a very high degree of accuracy, begins with a stack of aerial photographs, line drawings, geological survey maps, and such materials as clear mylar (plastic-based) sheets and intriguing little cut-outs and tools.

The "preliminary work-up" is the same for county and state maps.

The geological survey map, purchased from the federal government, is photo-copied, then fit onto a grid, to adjust the scale and to adjust the map to allow for the curvature of the earth (which makes a difference, it seems, even in relatively small areas).

Aerial photographs, taken by a private company, are projected onto the adjusted geological map with a small projector called a Sketchmaster, which can adjust the size of the projected photo to fit the map. Roads and other improvements are drawn onto the geological map, many of which are quite old.

Then a sort of blueprint, known as an ozalid print, is made of the corrected map.

Using workmaps, or line drawings kept by the state, cartographers locate "cultural development" along rural roads on county maps. The line drawings indicate what buildings — houses, churches, businesses, schools, exist at approximately where they are located. The aerial photos are used to pinpoint the location.

Then comes the tedious part. The clear mylar sheet is placed over the now-accurate and up-to-date print of a map. The cartographer traces the map, painstakingly filling in one square mile at a time.

The "drawing" on county and city maps is done with adhesive-backed, applique. Various symbols, indicating various types of structures, and a variety of solid and broken lines indicating different types of roads and railroads are used.

The symbols come on small sheets, and the cartographer lifts them from the sheet and places them precisely on the map, following exactly the lines of roads and so forth. The application process resembles that used for decorative sometimes used to decorate children's furniture.

Mistakes can be corrected by scraping off the decal and wiping off any residue. A small iron is used to heat the applique, both so it may be bent and curved to follow roads and to make it form a more permanent bond with the mylar.

Lettering and numbering are set on a headline machine, which provides a variety of types and sizes of letters and symbols, then applied to the "stick-up."

The result is photographed and duplicated, and "blue-line prints" are made.

The mylar stick-up is saved and reworked, year after year.

It sounds easy and looks like fun; but it's hard work. It takes from four months to a year to finish a map, depending on its complexity, which is why the maps may be as much as a year out of date.

Information is collected until Dec. 31, then recording begins.

A different process is used for the highway map. The preliminary workup is made in the same way as the city and county maps, up to the point where the map is applied onto the mylar.

Instead, a process called scribbling is used. Scribbling, according to the department's two scribes Ken Aldrich and Dean Norman, is drawing in reverse.

Instead of putting down a line on the material, scribes form lines by scraping material off the base. A clear polyurethane film coated with Intexquer based paint is used.

A tool with a small, beveled steel blade is pushed over the material, scraping off the paint and producing lines.

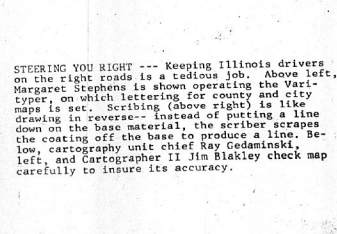

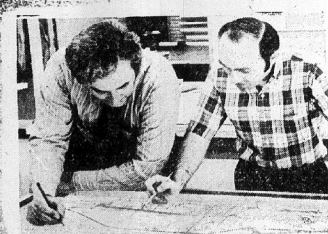

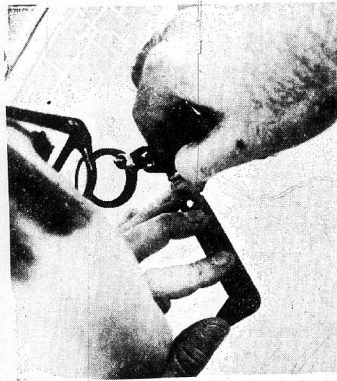

It's fun for the first hour or two, said Aldrich. The material can be painted over and corrected, and never wears out, he said. The same sheets can be reworked and corrected indefinitely, whereas the mylar sticksups sometimes come unstuck.

Scribbling generally is used for jobs requiring color separations, such as the state map. It takes about 72 sheets of scribe for the front and back of the map.

Like most of the 38 people in the drafting room, the scribes learned their trade on the job. Scribbling isn't taught anywhere, Aldrich said. Cartographers have some background in drafting, Blakley said; but apprentices learn the rest of their job by doing. After the apprentice stage comes Cartographer I, Cartographer II and so on.

That, in broad outline, is how maps come to be. Next time you get lost in the wilds or the cities of Illinois, you might reflect on the myriad details and hundreds of unsung manhours that have gone into accurately mapping the state.

It won't make you feel any better, but it will give you something to do while you try to get back on the right road.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM M. WEATHERLY. Their marriage was solemnized Friday evening at Bethel Pentecostal Chapel. The bride is the former Miss Freda Gail Nickell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmos G. Nickell, 2622 Missouri Ave.

Freda Gail Nickell wed in candlelight setting

Burning tapers in branched candelabra with baskets of fresh spring flowers provided the setting for the wedding Friday evening of Miss Freda Gail Nickell and William Michael Weatherly at Bethel Pentecostal Chapel.
The Rev. Darl Reynolds and the Rev. Clifton Galtner performed the double ring ceremony at 7 o'clock. Vickie and Kathy Johnson served as candlelighters.
Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Delmos G. Nickell, 2622 Missouri Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weatherly of Mount Vernon, Ill.
Mrs. Sandra Stewart, organist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Debbie Rich, as she sang "Love," "The Wedding Song" and "Love Story."
Escorted down the white carpeted aisle and given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white Chantilly lace gown. The veil of the bride's bodice was complemented with a cluster of seed pearls and iridescent sequins and fashioned with long fitted sleeves, ending in points at the wrists, and a natural waistline, dropping to a point in front.
Tiers of lace ruffles, edged with dainty lace, created the bodice and extended into a chapel-length train.
Her mantilla veil was bordered in lace and she carried a tear-drop bouquet of baby's breath and carnations centered with a detachable corsage.
Miss Jeanette Laswell was the maid of honor. Miss Pat Woods and Miss Nancy Johnson served as bridesmaids.
They selected gowns in blue, mint and yellow designed with Empire bodices, high necklines and lantern sleeves. Their skirts were flared, with an added amount of fullness at the back, and bordered with a wide lace band.
Two rows of lace centered with tiny buttons added interest to the front of the bodice and lace accented the necklines. Lace cap sleeves and ruffles, forming the layered look, were edged in matching Venice.
Each attendant carried a nosegay of carnations and baby's breath, tinted in colors to match her gown and festooned with streamers of multi-hued ribbons.
Holly Braundmeier was the flower girl and Jeff Stewart served as ring bearer. The former chose a pink frock made in identical style to those worn by the maids and she carried a white basket of vari-colored pompons.

All the attendants wore picture hats of spun straw enhanced with satin ovals and a bow at the back ending in long streamers.
Greg Webb was chosen by the groom to serve as best man with his brothers, David and Mike Nickell, as groomsmen. Jimmy Elmore, a cousin of the bride, and Rick Weatherly, brother of the groom, seated those arriving at the church.
A rehearsal dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents.
Guests were greeted at the YMCA by Mr. and Mrs. Weatherly at a reception held after the ceremony.
The bride, a 1972 graduate of Granite City High School, is employed at Boatman's National Bank, St. Louis.
Mr. Weatherly is a graduate of Mount Vernon Township School and Rend Lake Junior College. He is stationed at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, serving as a radar technician.
Mrs. Nickell, mother of the bride, chose a floor-length gown of chiffon taffeta with yellow and orange floral print midsu with accordion pleated ruffles on the bodice and sleeves. She wore yellow accessories.
The groom's mother was attired in a floor-length gown of pink polyester crepe, with long full cuffed sleeves of chiffon. Her dress was trimmed with silver at the neck and down the front of the bodice. Silver accessories complemented the ensemble.
Each mother wore a corsage of carnations tinted to match her gown.
